Hi, my name is Malik and i'm studying the Master in Game Design at the ZHdK. The informations you provide for this survey is a part of my Master thesis and it will help me to create a toolkit for Game Developers, who want to design a relaxing game experience for the players. You don't need to be a game developer to fill out this survey. You can write here your name or username if you want:

How many hours do you spend, on playing video games per week?

3

Do you play video games to relax?

Yes

4

Please name at least 3 video games, which offer in your opinion a relaxing experience, with an explanation as to why you feel relaxed (more answers are also welcome):

Team Fortress 2, a casual and fun FPS game that you can pick up at any time and have fun.

Terraria, like Minecraft but it's 2D and there is more content in the world. It's relaxing because you can build your own world and have adventures.

Grand Theft Auto V, I play this game because I get to drive around in Los Santos and just look at the world around me. I love the graphics and it feels like home. I mostly just drive around in the game.

Please name at least 3 video games, which offer in your opinion a stressfull experience, with an explanation as to why you feel stressed (more answers are also welcome):

Any video game designed for competitiveness, E-sports.

Dota 2, when you make a mistake you have your teammates yelling at you at how bad you are at the game. I don't play Dota 2 anymore, no thank you. I don't have to be yelled at during my days off from work.

CS:GO, Like Dota 2, if you cannot clutch a 1v2 or a 1v1 you will most likely get kicked out if you're playing casual rather than enjoying the fun game.

Left 4 Dead 2, the single player is fun with friends, but there are too many trolls and hackers in this game to make it fun any more.
